A true copy from the records of my office, Attest, G. B. Cooper, Clerk.
By J. C. Bailey, D. C.

DANVILLE.

—Mrs. Henry Lerner is now pronounced by her physicians to be out of danger.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McRoberts, of Lancaster, were in town Tuesday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Nichols.

—In the circuit court this week the prosecutions against Kate Lee and Joe Morrison, charged with an attempt to burn, &c., were continued. Also those of Pomp Bates and George Word, charged with killing Geo. Wells. In the case of Charles Christopher, charged with malicious shooting, the jury disagreed, nine for acquittal and three for unlawful shooting.

—The marriage of Miss Jessie T. Dadds, daughter of Capt. J. R. Dadds, to Mr. A. L. Browning, of Bosworth, Mo., took place at the family residence, Wednesday morning, Rev. R. H. Caldwell, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, officiating. The bride wore a dark blue traveling dress with hat and gloves to match. The groom wore the customary black. Soon after breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Browning left for a trip to Washington City and the east. Relatives of the parties and a few intimate friends alone were present at the ceremony.

—Mr. John J. Samuel was, Thursday at noon, honorably acquitted of the charge of setting fire, last Christmas night, to a warehouse belonging to Hubert McGoolwin, of this place. The charge in the first place was baseless, or so nearly so that any one of a dozen persons might have with the same propriety been accused as Mr. Samuel, and if any one of the dozen had been accused there would have been no evidence in the mind of any fair person against him. That the whole transaction was a conspiracy there is no doubt in the minds of those acquainted with the inside facts. The case was ably presented to the jury by Hon. R. C. Warren, the defendant's uncle, of Stanford, and J. W. Yerkes, of Danville, for the defense. Messrs. Herndon and Harding represented the prosecution. Without disparaging the effort of any gentleman on either side, it is but justice to say that Mr. Warren's argument was a masterpiece of eloquence and logic.

Is view of the order of the city council to clean up and disinfect, we give this recipe from the Country Gentleman for a disinfectant, which that reliable paper recommends in the highest terms. It is tasteless, colorless, inodorous and non corrosive and can be used without risk: "For one barrel of 35 or 40 gallons, take one ounce of nitrate of lead and dissolve in warm water. Take eight ounces of common salt, dissolve and mix with the dissolved nitrate. Fill up the barrel with water and put the mixture in it. This makes a saturated solution of chloride of lead at a cost of not more than 10 or 15 cents for the barrel full.

—Miller's saw mill boiler at Shopville, Pulaski county, exploded killing instantly Pleas Whitson and injuring George Whitson, Tol Randall, Paul Gragg and Allen Miller, two or more of whom will die.

—Bergman, the anarchist, who shot Manager Frick, of the Homestead works, was given 21 years in the pen. He was taken thither at once and a guard has to be kept over him to prevent his attempting to commit suicide, which he declares he will do the first chance.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Mrs. Dora Jackson, who has been ill so long, will probably not survive 24 hours.

—The protracted meeting at the Christian church is still going on with a good attendance.

—The kindergarten commenced Monday night with a good attendance of nice little folks.

—H. A. Roundtree, deputy railroad agent, left Monday for a three-weeks' visit to Indiana.

—Postmaster Weaver wants it understood that he is for no force bill, but for a free ballot and fair count every time.

—A number of our people are in attendance at the Barbourville fair and more will follow to-night and to-morrow.

—The speech of Hon. Saml. J. Martin at the democratic convention on Monday made every democratic heart warm to him.

—The prayer of Rev. F. K. Struve was a good one, without any partisanship or anything unpleasant, at the democratic convention.

—The man Anderson who is accused of killing Editor Rucker, of Somerset, is a half brother of Rev. W. T. Bryant's wife, of this city.

—R. M. Jackson's little bay mare went lame on the Somerset track at the fair there and if she does not recover, his loss will be $1,000.

—G. A. Denham is a great peace maker in a democratic convention and to him is due much of the harmonious proceedings of our convention.

—All are glad to learn the Middleboro conference sent Rev. Struve to us for another year as pastor of the M. E. church, south, at this place and at Manchester.

—I sent you a dispatch Monday giving the action of the democratic convention and the unanimous nomination for Congress in this district of Hon. J. R. Hindman. On being notified of his nomination, the governor accepted it and made a stirring speech pledging himself to earnest and untiring work. The resolutions endorse the platform of the National convention, pledge support to its nominees, condemn the force bill, favor the reduction of taxes, State and National to the necessities of an economically administered government, favor a sound and stable currency, free and pure elections and reiterate devotion to the cause of the laboring people.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—A choice lot of seed wheat for sale. J. B. Collier, Lancaster.

—A good crowd attended the sale of the personal property of Hon. Wm. Berkeley, dead, Tuesday and everything sold for good prices.

—Editor Rucker, who was assassinated at Somerset Tuesday night, published a newspaper in Lancaster about 20 years ago. He had many admiring friends here who deeply deplore his untimely death.

—The health board is visiting each residence in town and making a thorough examination of the premises. While there is not so much cause of alarm, it is well enough to give the town a thorough cleaning.

—A very hard wind and rain storm visited our town Sunday Tuesday night. Much damage was done to have been done to the corn crop. During the storm the weather vane and part of the iron railing on the court-house cupola were blown off.

—The examining trial of John Campbell for killing Humphrey Best began Wednesday. The entire day was taken up by the examination of the commonwealth's witnesses and the case was continued until to-day, Thursday. The commonwealth is represented by County Attorney R. H. Tomlinson and Judge Sautley, while Gen. Landrum and J. M. Rothwell are looking after the interests of the defendant. Campbell, who was wounded during the fight, has recovered sufficiently to attend the trial.

—Mrs. Nell D. Elkin, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Jennie Duncan, returned to her home in Atlanta, Wednesday. Mrs. W. R. Marrs has accepted a position with a large millinery house in Nashville. Mrs. Dr. Joe Rodgers, of Bloomington, Ind., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Pattie D. Gill. Mrs. C. M. Richardson, of Somerset, is visiting her parents on Lexington street. Miss Maggie Millie is visiting in Richmond. Judge J. C. Hemphill attended the meeting of the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias at Harrodsburg this week.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons, postmaster of Idaville, Indiana, writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 5c a bottle at A. R. Penny's drug store."

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., SEPTEMBER 23, 1892

W. P. WALTON.

SIX : PAGES.
EVERY FRIDAY.

As he was going home from his office Monday night, Joseph B. Rucker, editor of the Somerset Reporter, was fired at by a cowardly assassin hid in the darkness and two of the three shots struck him in the back. He fell, apparently dead, and was taken by friends to the nearest drug store, when he gave signs of life. He was then removed to his home, where he died a little past midnight, after recovering consciousness enough to say he did not see who shot him. Mr. Rucker has been very outspoken in his denunciation of crime and criminals and it is thought that one of the many who have felt the deserved lash of his pen, committed the foulest deed known to the law—an assassination. It has not been very long since the same gentleman was clubbed from behind by a man who was smarting under the showing up of his deeds by the editor, and the fact that he has so far gone unwhipped of justice no doubt emboldened the cowardly scoundrel to do his infamous work. The citizens are thoroughly aroused and if the assassin is caught they will deal summarily with him. It is the kind of case that needs no judge and jury and calls aloud for lynch law. Mr. Rucker was a peaceable, kind-hearted man, but could not countenance crime in any shape and he has made his paper of late a terror to evil doers, as every editor should feel it his duty to do. He leaves a wife and three children, all of them grown, who have the consolation that he died a victim of what seemed to be to him his duty. We sympathize sincerely with them and exonerate the miserable fiend, who has deprived them of a husband and father's love and protection. May the crime be wiped out in short order so far as the life of the assassin is able to do it.

The assassin is thought to be Ex-Chief of Police Anderson, for whose willful neglect of duty he was frequently scored by Editor Rucker. He finally resigned and went into the saloon business, going from bad to worse. The county has offered $1,000 reward for his capture, the State $500 and a brother-in-law of the deceased $500. Strong efforts are being made to apprehend him when we hope he will not be allowed long to cumber the earth.

A PART of our last edition contained a dispatch of the nomination of Gov. J. R. Hindman, of Adair, for Congress, by the convention at London. Mr. S. C. Hardin, of Clinton, withdrew and the nomination was made unanimously and enthusiastically. We are not so credulous to believe that the governor will be able to overcome the 10,000 republican majority of the 11th district, but there is not another democrat in the district who can give Col. Adams as close a race as he can. He is a very captivating stump speaker and is as popular as he is clever and handsome. In a word he is just the man to win votes from the republicans, while carrying his own party's strength solidly.

The democratic nominee for Congress in a Texas district, has a moustache 1 1/2 inches from "end to end." It is to be hoped that that is not his only claim to distinction.

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found a condensed statement of the manner of voting under the new law, prepared, as it requires, by the county clerk and the county attorney. A perusal of this statement clearly shows that the privilege of exercising one's suffrage under the new order of things is not, by far, so difficult a matter as is generally believed; and we feel assured that no democrat worthy of the name will at this time allow so trivial an objection to deter him from casting his vote. The provisions of the law, in a nut-shell, are that the candidates of every party shall be printed on each ballot, each set being placed in separate rows under some emblem or device by which the party is designated. The emblem is placed in an inch square, and a small square is also placed after the name of each candidate. Each voter is given one ballot and is required to retire to a covered booth for its preparation. If he desires to vote for all the nominees of any party, he has only to make a cross mark in the square containing that party's emblem; if he desires to "scratch" his ticket, he has only to make cross marks after the names of those for whom he desires to vote, after which the ballot is folded and deposited in the ballot box. To illustrate, suppose the time-honored rooster is selected as the emblem of democracy; a coon for that of republicanism; a jug for the prohibitionists and a spade for the labor or people's party, likenesses of these various emblems will be placed at the head of the various parties' lists of candidates, and an elector desiring to vote any of the tickets "straight" need only place a cross mark in the square containing the proper emblem. Surely there is nothing complicated about this, and it only requires sufficient knowledge upon the part of the elector to know for whom he desires to vote. The new law is substantially a reproduction of the "Australian Ballot System" and is the creature of that most progressive people whose name it bears, having first been put in operation, we believe, in New South Wales. It was first introduced in the United States in 1888, when it was adopted by the legislature of Massachusetts for the entire State and by the legislature of Kentucky for the municipal elections of the city of Louisville, being known there as the "Wallace law." It was adopted by the legislatures of nine States in 1889 and by sixteen in 1891. Since then a number of other States have adopted it, Kentucky being among the last to fall into line. It is a duty of the democracy of Lincoln county to aid materially in wresting this judicial district from the rule of republicanism and likewise the presidency from the same unworthy hands. Our friends, the enemy, have ten times more ignorance to contend with than we have, yet we dare say that every mother's son of them will not only know how to vote, but will act on that knowledge. Then let the democracy imitate its ancient enemy in this one particular only. Open political kindergartens at once and see that the ignorant are instructed. Let there be a meeting of the county committee and let each member be thoroughly informed as to the new method, then let each member see that every democratic voter of his precinct is also thoroughly informed. And when November comes we can show the world, whether the election be by ballot or viva voce, that Kentucky can be depended upon for its old-time majority for the party of the people.

A CONTEMPORARY calls attention to the fact that there is now but one survivor of President Davis' cabinet, Postmaster General John H. Reagan, of Texas, now railroad commissioner of the State, after having been congressman and U. S. Senator. This is recalled by the death of Gov. Watts, the other day, who was attorney general in the same cabinet. It is also a reminder of how fast those who played prominent parts in that great conflict are passing away. Not one of the leading generals are living and soon there will be left none to tell the tale of our civil war. The youngest of the Confederate soldiers are now 50 or past and the buoyancy of youth has given way to gray hairs and stooping forms, which must soon moulder into clay.

PULASKI county and Somerset are getting up a deserved reputation as being the rottenest section in the State as to lawlessness. The cowardly murderers there do not give their victims any show, but shoot them down in darkness and through the back. The assassination of Editor Rucker is followed by that of Daniel Norfleet, who was waylaid and shot by Milt Britton. He has been arrested and if the facts are as given, he ought to be hung without the usual formalities. Tom Scott, a very degenerate son of a worthy sire, is also in jail for furnishing the gun to do the killing. It would take all the hemp raised in Fayette county to hang all in Pulaski county who deserve to have their necks stretched.

It is little wonder that murder and other lawlessness hold high carnival in Kentucky, when a life sentence is given for a crime for which the death penalty would poorly atone. Brookshire, the horse thief, who killed the jailer and constable who tried to arrest him, was tried at Frenchburg Monday and given the former sentence. The people were so outraged that they would have quick y put an end to the wretch's life, but the officers spirited him away and by a circuitous route landed him at Frankfort. With tender-hearted juries and weak judges, lynch law will continue to be resorted to and in such a case as this it will be justifiable.

Gov. HILL has proved that he is not only a democrat, but a man every inch of him. His speech at Brooklyn in advocacy of democratic doctrines and the election of Cleveland and Stevenson, is full of wisdom and eloquence and contains enough key notes for the whole campaign. His utterances on the tariff and other issues are clearer than the clearest and the whole speech demonstrates that if he had any bitterness, he has been able to put it away most heroically. Let every disappointed democrat say with him: "Loyalty to cardinal democratic principles and to regularly nominated candidates is the supreme duty of the hour."

A PREACHER at Jennings, La., tried to ape Sam Jones' style of pulpit oratory. He charged that all the men of the town were fornicators and adulterers and that more than half of the women were unchaste. A doctor who was in the audience arose and asked the ladies to retire. They did so, when he walked down to the pulpit and asked the preacher if he had been correctly understood. He repeated the charge, whereupon the doctor drew a cowhide and literally wore him out. And most people will say he deserved all he got.

The Satellites of Mercury have arranged for a grand ball and spectacular display at the Louisville Auditorium, Nov. 18.

GOV. M. CRENSHAW made a rattling fine speech at Lawrenceburg Monday on the tariff and force bills. It is said that he converted a number of republicans, who will vote for him. It is learned from good authority that the republicans will make no nomination against the governor, satisfied that a candidate would have his labor for his pains and lose his time and expenses besides.

THE G. A. R.' parade at Washington was the largest the organization has ever had. Over 70,000 old soldiers and so-called soldiers were in line and the battle cry was "More Pensions." We would suggest that while they are at the Capital they loot the treasury and be done with it.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—James Farmer, 50 years old and a widower, and Mrs. Pollie Gill, a widow of 32, were married yesterday.

—James M. Griffith, a widower of 38, and Miss Nannie J. Powers, just 18, were married Wednesday at the home of the bride's father, C. M. Powers.

—On the 15th of September, 1892, at De Lansey Place, Philadelphia, Penn., by Rector Samuel E. Appleton, Mrs. Mary Morton Poter, only daughter of W. J. Poter, of Harrodsburg, was united in marriage to Mr. William Hewitt Wilson, of Lancaster, Penn. The marriage was a quiet one, only a few friends being present. The above, which was sent us by a relative at Harrodsburg, will surprise the lady's friends very much. She had been in Philadelphia since last May for treatment for nervous prostration and had fully recovered. May her new relation bring happiness and comfort to a ripe old age.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. A. V. Sizemore will preach at Logans Creek church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

—The people are very much pleased with the preaching of Rev. J. J. Rnst, who is a very accomplished gentleman, being a graduate of the University of Virginia and the Theological Seminary of Louisville, and his meeting here promises much good. It will continue twice daily until further notice.

CLEAN UP.

—It is ordered that each and every citizen in the city of Stanford clean up their premises and cleanse their water closets thoroughly, as the board of health for the county and State will with the marshal, visit your premises and inspect them in a few days. Done by order of the city council. D. W. Vandever, Mayor.

NEWSY NOTES.

—There are 30 towns called "Washington" in the United States.

—Fifteen hundred furniture workers went out on a strike in Cincinnati.

—There have been several deaths on either side growing out of a race war between whites and blacks in Calhoun county, Arkansas.

—A passenger train on the Fort Wayne ran into a freight at Shreve, O., and 13 persons were killed instantly or burned to death in the wreck.

—Spaninger, the lady charmer, and Mrs. Cole, accused of the poisoning of the women in the Louisville assignation house, were discharged on examining trial.

—The Montgomery county fair will be held Sept. 27 to Oct. 1. In addition to the fine exhibits and trots there is offered large prizes in bicycle races each day; also as one of the features is a five days shooting tournament, prizes aggregating over $1,000.

—Train robbers wrecked a train on the Santa Fe, near Osage City, Kas., by removing a rail. Four persons were killed outright and 35 seriously wounded. The train was carrying a million dollars to Mexico, but the fiends do not seem to have gotten it.

A SUMMER GIRL'S PLAN.

Some Advertisements That May Help Out a Summer Resort.

A particularly healthy and happy summer girl, who has gained several hundred extra freckles this season, suggests as the result of her summer's experience a new form of outdoor advertising.

Since people will decorate the landscape with advertisements, she proposes to replace the usual recommendations of soap powders and stove polish with something in this style:

Found—On the bench at Pasquisset, last August, by a delicate young lady: a fine appetite, sound, healthy and in good condition; alarmed at nothing, from tickles to baked clams. Will be kept until called for.

Lost—By an elderly gentleman, on the shore at 8 a. m. in the company of a dozen nephews and nieces occupied in constructing a sand fort: The opinion that children are misuses, and that all the morning is good for is to read the newspaper. One cent reward.

Found—Lying in a hammock on the front piazza of the Sea View House, by a tired housewife: Perfect rest.

Lost—By a languid young woman, on the mountain path: A taste for tears and depressing poetry. Found—At the same time: Good health and an interest in nature.

Found—By a pale youth from the city, in a sailboat on the river: A fine color, shading from a faint tan about the ears to rich red brown on the cheeks and neck; very manly and becoming. Will be surrendered to no claimant whatsoever.

Lost—By an overburdened mother, on the rocks at sunset about the middle of the season: An irritable temper, and the habit of nagging. No reward offered.

Lost—By a fashionable girl: Any number of small afflictions and an absorbing interest in dress. Found—Ten pounds additional weight and the ability to row, run and swim.

Found—By a family of fretful children, at the seaside: Plenty to do, fresh air and amiable dispositions enough to go around. On communication with the parents of the aforesaid children, any price will be paid to secure the retention of these objects.

The summer girl is quite sure that such advertisements suitably posted upon boardwalks, fences and trees would secure the fortune next year of the first resort to introduce them.—Youth's Companion.

Making It Easy for Him.

The time was approaching midnight. The old gent was listening from a cogen of vantage at the head of the stairs.

He had been there in his stocking feet for as long as thirty-two minutes.

The young man was lingering at the front door with the old gent's daughter. As alingerer he was a success, and he was nipped and abetted by the girl.

This also the old gent knew, as well as several other interesting things.

That's why he became tired of listening at the head of the stairs.

He was not hearing any news.

At last he heard a shuffling of feet.

"It is so hard to say good night, darling," the young man said to the girl, who believed every word he uttered.

As they always do before matrimony gets in its baleful work.

"Don't say it, George," smug out the old man; "wait about five minutes and say 'good morning.'"

It was then the impediment in George's speech was removed, and with at least four and a half minutes to spare the girl closed the front door, and George trotted along home.—Detroit Free Press.

Unprepared.

"These apple dumplings of yours, Lohelia," said Mr. McSwat with emphasis, as he turned the half eaten one on his plate over and inspected the other side.

"Are positively?"

"Go on, sir," said Mrs. McSwat, with blazing eyes, bracing herself to meet it.

"Are positively the best I ever?"

But she had fainted.—Chicago Tribune.

Expecting Too Much.

"Why, Jimmy," said one professional beggar to another, "are you going to knock off already? It's only 2 o'clock."

"No, you muttonhead," responded the other, who was engaged in unbuckling his crutch, "I am only going to put it on the other knee. You don't suppose a fellow can beg all day on the same leg, do you?"—Boston Globe.

An Eye to Practice.

A local magistrate at Potstown has established a fixed value for slaps. A young married woman had her husband arrested for slapping her and was awarded one dollar apiece for five slaps, which the magnanimous husband was compelled to pay over to the insulted wife. Whether he considered them cheap at that price is not stated, but the woman in the case was tickled to death over the result of her appeal to the law.

What will become now of that clause in the statutes that permits a man to chastise his wife if it is impossible to predict, but the Potstown squire has established a precedent that threatens serious complications with the liberties of married men of the commonwealth.—Oil City Derrick.

Using Pigeons for Smuggling.

A curious utilization of carrier pigeons was recently attempted in Belgium. This was making them carry contraband goods into France. For a short time twenty-four pigeons were let off regularly from the Belgian dovecot, each burdened with a small coil of tobacco. They arrived at the French destination rather exhausted and doubtless glad to be relieved of their load. In one case, however, unfortunately for this bright scheme, a pigeon in making the flight and proving unequal to the effort, or perhaps poisoned by the narcotic, fell into the Seine and was picked up. The system was found out and suppressed.—Yankee Blade.

Useless.

Wife—Why, you haven't smoked more than one of those cigars I got for you!

Husband—My dear, I give you credit for being a very good judge of cigars. I am saving those for my friends.—Truth.

LIVE STOCK

SILO BUILDING.

Round Silos Are Best Because Least Exposed to Weather.

Professor F. H. King furnishes to The Rural New Yorker a valuable illustrated paper showing how to build a round silo, as follows:

Round silos may be built of wood, stone, brick or metal. They require less material than rectangular silos, and will usually be found cheaper for a given storage capacity. Round silos of any of the materials named may be readily constructed as small as twelve feet inside diameter.

The foundation of the round silo, as of any other, should consist of masonry, and if the wall does not extend more than eighteen inches above the surface of the ground, the thickness need not exceed eighteen inches. Where the silo is an attachment to a basement where the silo is practicable to do so, the bottom should extend to the level of the floor upon which the stock is fed. The round silo of wood may be set upon a stone basement extending eight or ten feet below the surface of the ground and with the same advantage as any other type. Indeed, I would urge the general practice of sinking the bottom of the silo at least two, if not three, feet below the bottom of the feeding stable, wherever the ground is dry enough to prevent water from draining into it.

In Fig. 2 is shown one method of laying and leveling the foundation wall where it is only two or three feet high. A center post with a strap level with that of the proposed wall: the silo is set upon a stone basement extending eight or ten feet below the surface of the ground and with the same advantage as any other type. Indeed, I would urge the general practice of sinking the bottom of the silo at least two, if not three, feet below the bottom of the feeding stable, wherever the ground is dry enough to prevent water from draining into it.

Showing the construction of all wood round silos. Silos 2 by 4's cut in sections on a radius of the silo circle, bedded in mortar and toenailed together. Plates the same, spiked to the studding 2 by 4's one foot apart. Short lengths may be used, lapped, to get the depth; 18's and 12's will give a silo thirty feet deep. Lining made from fencing ripped in two. Outside sheathing the same. Siding for silos under thirty feet outside diameter, common siding rabbeted; for silos more than twenty-eight feet outside diameter, common drop siding or shiplap may be used. A shows ventilators between studding. Auger holes are bored at bottom between studding, and the boards lack two inches of reaching plate at top inside. Both sets of openings are covered with wire cloth to keep out vermin. There should be a line of feeding doors from top to bottom, each two to three feet by five feet and about two to five feet apart.

Plates and studding are most simply made by cutting 2-inch lumber, of the same width as the studding, into sections of from two to four feet long, according to the diameter of the silo, sawing on the bevel determined by the direction of the radius of the circle; those for the silo are bedded in mortar and toenailed together, and those for the plates spiked down upon the top of the studding.

Where the silos do not exceed thirty feet in diameter 2 by 4's studding gives ample strength, and in no case is it necessary to use studding larger than 2 by 6. The use of the studding is to hold the lining and siding in place and to support the roof. In the round silo the strain from the eusilage is sustained by the lining and siding, each course acting as a hoop. The distance between the studding or silos less than thirty feet in diameter should be one foot. In those over thirty feet the studding may be sixteen inches apart. After the silos are placed the studding should be toenailed to them just as in a balloon frame, and each silo and plate stayed with a board nailed to a post set in the center of the silo. After plumbing and staking the studding in this direction, it may be stayed in an opposite one by springing 3/4-inch boards around and tacking them to the studding.

The lining should be of 3/4-inch lumber, and may be obtained by splitting fencing in two or by a special order at the mills. Two thicknesses, with a layer of good tar paper between, are required, and the two layers of boards should be laid in opposite directions. The best is to use three layers of 3/4-inch lumber with two layers of tar paper between to secure perfect eusilage next the wall, but the additional layer may be added at any time.

The siding may consist of two layers with plaster between, where the temperature of winter demands them. When the circle is less than thirty feet 3/4-inch lumber should be used, and the siding must be rabbeted to lie as shiplap does. Common house siding, rabbeted, answers for every purpose, and it is made the better by some mills. Where the circle exceeds thirty feet in diameter drop siding may be used, that of the shiplap type being most easily put on.

The nailing lath and old should be thorough and in every stud, because the boards should be laid in the lengthwise direction of the silo; for this reason also the boards should be made to break joints on the studding. For the inside lining, it is better to use 10-penny nails for the thin thickness so as to draw the layers tightly together, and to nail the lining be careful not to miss the studding, as every nail hole thus formed will admit a large amount of air.

In putting on the siding and the lining also, after the first course of boards is in place, the next should be started one stud back of where the first was begun, so that the ends of two corners shall not meet on the same stud. This method be rigidly observed to secure the greatest strength and to keep the circle true all times. When these precautions are observed, it is unnecessary to stay the tops of the studding before beginning to put on the siding, which should go on before the lining.

The method of ventilating between the studding is shown in Fig. 3. Three 3/4-inch auger holes or a single 2-inch one may be made through the bottom board between each pair of studs and covered on the inside with wire netting to keep out vermin. At the top, inside, the lining lack 1 1/2 inches of reaching the plate, and the interspace provides means for a current of dry air entering below from the outside to escape through the ventilator in the roof. The openings at the bottom outside may be provided with sliding lids held in place by a single screw. If experience shows that they need be closed during very severe weather.

FIG. 3—VENTILATION.

Range Cattle Troubles.

Ranges in Montana and Wyoming Are Overcrowded.

The area of the ranges is becoming more and more restricted every year. Not only is the area being gradually lessened, but the grass upon the ranges is being more and more eaten and trodden out, so that the ranges will not support as many cattle per acre as they did in years past.

Even when the rains are copious the grass never appears as luxuriant as it was twenty years ago, and the reason is that the grass has been overpastured so continuously that it has had no opportunity to recover its old exuberance.

Under present conditions this bad state of affairs must continue. The owners of cattle are permitted to use any part of the public domain for pasture. One man has as much right to pasture the public domain as another. If one cattle owner has occupied a certain district of country for pasturing any other cattle owner can drive his cattle on the same ground. The mutual understanding and forbearance of cattle owners has alone prevented serious difficulties between them. The differences between Abraham and Lot show that like troubles must occur where any pasture is overcrowded.

The ranges of Montana and Wyoming are now overcrowded. There is more danger to the cattle interests from overcrowding than from stealing. As the country settles up this danger must increase.

The question naturally arises, Is there no way of preventing the overcrowding of the ranges? If all our lands could be occupied by small farmers and stock growers in another generation the whole matter would be practically settled.

But there must always remain large bodies of land which can be put to no practical use except for pasturing. The question is therefore a vital one and must be solved.

As the ranges become more circumscribed and the grass under the present system of pasturing poorer and poorer, conflicts must arise between cattle owners. These owners will not be able to agree to disagree, as did Abraham and Lot. The law must step in and make some regulations to preserve the peace between cattle owners and property in cattle, unless a valuable interest is permitted to be destroyed. The best plan, it seems to us, is for the state governments to be given control of the ranges and the officers of the respective counties, with proper supervision, be required to make such divisions in the ranges as the face of the country will permit, leaving the right of pasture in such divisions as they may choose to make for a term of years, and using the money so obtained to police the several counties so as to prevent any trespassing or injury to stock growing. At any rate things cannot go on as they are now. Already owners of large numbers of cattle are preparing to go out of the business, for they foresee disaster if it is to be continued as now conducted.—Montana Farming and Live Stock Journal.

Ben Questions and Answers.

"How much space is needed in yard for twenty-five chicks almost ready to sell?"

A yard 3 by 6 feet would do.

"If you wanted to keep 100 hens of common stock, slightly mixed with Rocks, Wyandottes, Cochins and Brahmas, what kind of makes would you get for next year? I want both broilers and eggs."

Use Brown Leghorns.—Rural New Yorker.

Live Stock Points.

Almost as great a show as a circus was the advent in New York city of 2,000 unbroken horses from a Montana ranch. They were taken to the big city to be sold, and attracted crowds at the yards where they were corralled in the upper part of the city. It is safe to say that few of the thousands of visitors had ever seen unbroken western horses before. To the small boy they were a gold-seed. They were mostly of the mustang size and build, though there was some Clydesdale blood intermixed. Those of mustang kind sold for from twenty to forty dollars apiece. It was fun indeed to see the new owners leading off by a rope around his neck a wild horse just purchased. It was more fun yet when they began the breaking in operation. Sometimes a genuine cowboy such as New Yorkers had never seen outside of a Buffalo Bill show went along and gave the new owner the first lesson in tacking his purchase. To see a fat and timid German grocer trying to coax and jolt a wild mustang and honey him into harness was a sight never to be forgotten.

In making calculations ahead for the live stock feed crop of next year, do not forget to provide for rape for pasture.

In the large cities of the eastern markets the latter part of this summer sound horses five to eight years old, well broken and in good condition, have brought prices as follows: Heavy drafters, weighing 1,500 to 1,700 pounds, $150 to $250; express horses, $150 to $225; "chunks and streeters," weighing 1,050 to 1,250 pounds, $90 to $135. Good drivers always sell well at prices higher than those quoted. Poor horses—well, nobody wants poor horses at any price if he can get anything else.

On frosty mornings remember to keep your stock off rape pasture till the sun dries it, so as to avoid bloat. When the cattle and sheep are very hungry keep them off the rape till they have had a bite of something else. Eating too greedily of rape is injurious. Let them have all the salt they want on rape pasture, but they need no grain.

Range horses wholly unbroken sell better in the markets than those half broken.

Many people allow the chickens to pick up their living off manure heaps, and then wonder how it is the birds get gapes, chicken cholera and consumption.

Small flocks and herds usually do better than very large ones.

TO DO AWAY WITH FOUL DRESS.

The Earl of Dysart, writing to the London Times of a recent date, calls for modification of the strict rule that governs dress at the opera—as well as in most other theaters—in London. He says: "Owing to the present ridiculous system of compulsory evening dress, which exists nowhere else in the world, and also the uncertain delays between the acts and the impossibility of ascertaining the time of finish, thousands are practically prevented from going to the opera at all, as the inconvenience of such useless restrictions to persons like myself living out of London, but within the twelve mile radius, is obvious. At present many are compelled to leave before the end in order to catch the midnight trains. That every one should have to appear in evening dress at the Italian opera may be perfectly right, with its star system, where fashionable people go to see their friends."

"I venture to suggest that art should be democratic, as it is on the Continent, and I therefore feel sure you will agree with me in thinking that such rules are altogether out of place at the German opera, which is, or ought to be, resorted to for the sake of art and not for fashion. I appeal to those who think with me in this matter to use their influence to abolish these dress restrictions. Sir Augustus Harris has already done something in this direction, and would doubtless do more were it not for British insular prejudice. In Germany the opera is a popular institution owing to the fact that people can go without ceremony. Let us hope that this will soon be the case in England."

London to Have a New Bridge.

London, in addition to that well known monument of engineering science opposite the tower, is to have a new steel bridge at an estimated cost of £280,000. The existing structure which spans the Thames at Vauxhall, once so famous for its royal gardens, is soon to be a thing of the past. It owes its premature death—it will be but some seventy-seven years old when demolished—to the insuperable circumstances under which it was erected.

When the foundations were completed for what was at first intended to be a stone bridge, the builders decided to construct the remaining portion of cast iron, thus constituting Vauxhall the first metropolitan bridge built of that metal. The masonry piers were, however, left, the original design of nine narrow arches being therefore maintained. It is to the attrition engendered by the swirl of confined and condensed waters under these nine circumscribed vaults that the old bridge owes its doom.

Its foundations are reported on the authority of divers to be, if not exactly tottering, at least in so bad a condition that the structure would in a comparatively short period become absolutely unsafe.

THE COMING BEEF.

The Animal That Cattlemen Will Find
Most Profitable.Undoubtedly the most marked change in the handling of beef cattle during the past few years has been the system of finishing off a steer for the block before he has turned 2 years old. Great credit must be given to the fat stock shows for having educated the rank and file of our feeders up to this point.Our surplus has to face the fierce fire of competition from all parts of the globe. In the southern part of this continent are vast herds of cattle whose owners have to find a market for their overflow. In Australia the cry is echoed across the sea of too much beef and mutton. Even in some of the European countries there is want for export. For years past our safety has lain in a virgin soil, a generous climate and cheap transportation, but the improvements in steamships is bridging vast distances,
and the era of fiercer competition looms up in the distance.We must be up and doing. You cannot reduce the cost of beef production
as if it were wheat, by cheaper machinery and improved methods of handling.
You can of course help it in this way,
but the only true system is to improve the breed and handle it more judiciously.
Improvement of blood comes largely from capital, but it takes skill, science and practical experience added to the above to produce first class beef in half the time required some years ago, even provided you have the material to work upon. To obtain this and an annual must be fed from its infancy. It must never be allowed to retrograde. We do not say it should be crowded right along,
but the growth must be steadily onward,
and toward the end the pressure must be greater.The profitable time to sell a bullock just now is when it has reached 1,350 to 1,500 pounds, live weight, and that weight should be reached before 2 years old with average feeding. Where one buyer will look at a big, fat 1,500-pound bullock you have three or four customers for the lighter weight. The producer should cater to the consumer's taste. In doing so he helps himself at the same time. In this inaudible sphere the reward of skill and science generally comes in the shape of dollars.—Live Stock Report.

Cheviot Sheep.

These are the sheep from which the Scotch cheviot wool fabrics now so fashionable are made. The sheep themselves are natives of the Cheviot hills, between England and Scotland. They produce an average of five pounds of wool. For either a wool or a mutton sheep the Cheviot is highly prized.
Henry Stewart says that when fed on "sweet, dry herbage" the mutton is most choice. This dry herbage is found

CHEVIOT RAM.

in all our western states, and it looks as if the Cheviot would be particularly adapted to that part of the country. At any rate a more general trial of the breed ought to be made by those who have time and can afford it. We have an American Merino. We might perhaps also in the course of a few years get an American Cheviot as famous.The Cheviot sheep is hornless, which is in its favor. The face is considerably Roman nosed. The legs and face are white, occasionally spotted with dun.
Stewart says of these sheep in their native land, "They fatten quickly on turnips after pasture, without grain, and make a dressed weight of eighty pounds at 3 years old." The ewes in Great Britain are cross bred with mutton rams to produce lambs for market. We would like to see this tried in America more generally, as the Cheviot ewe is an excellent mother. The Cheviot is one of the hardiest breeds of sheep known.

Anthrax in Delaware.

An important meeting of the farmers of New Castle county was held to consider measures for stamping out an outbreak of anthrax, a fatal contagious disease among the cattle of this vicinity.The meeting was attended by about 200 of the most substantial farmers of the county. It is reported that twenty-three cows and three horses have died of the disease within a radius of two miles of Newport within a month.The meeting was addressed by Dr.
Leonard Pearson, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. H. P. Eves, of Wilmington, professor of veterinary surgery at Delaware college. Dr. Pearson explained that the early symptoms of the disease were similar to sunstroke,
it was almost always fatal in its results;
and that the bacilli of the disease propagated with extraordinary rapidity and were extremely hard to destroy, the only sure way to get rid of them being by fire. Dr. Eves, who has made post mortem examinations of several anthrax carcasses, agreed with Dr. Pearson as to symptoms, and said that there was no remedy he could recommend except the extermination of animals affected by the disease and the destruction of the carcasses by fire or deep burial, the grave to be not less than five feet from the level of the ground.The meeting appointed a committee to secure needed legislation for the official extermination of affected cattle and the remuneration of their owners.—

MUTTON SHEEP.

He Punctures Some Fairy Tales, and His Language Is Plain.Three years ago I bred my Merino ewes to a "scrub" coarse woolled ram.
The result was a lot of very good lambs,
which fattened well and brought a good price when sold in July. Next year I purchased a thoroughbred Shropshire
ram. His get was a marked improvement over the others, yet when placed on the market they brought but little more than the scrubs. The improvement was sufficient to justify me in buying a high priced ram, but it would nowhere compare with that which the keepers of stud flocks claim to result therefrom. The enormous carcasses and prices which S. H. Todd and others get for winter fed, half blood Shrops, from "old broken down Merino ewes," induced me to try winter feeding; eighty pounds being the average weight and six cents the price, $4.80 was the amount realized per head at ten months old.
This was far below Todd's $7.50 and $8 per head.Last year I purchased fifty grade ewes and another Shropshire ram. I was disappointed in getting the ram at the time I wished to turn in, and the lambs did not begin to come until April 14. From the statements of many breeders I had every reason to expect seventy-five lambs from the fifty ewes.
It was a sore disappointment when they dropped but fourteen pairs of twins.
Three ewes were barren, leaving me only sixty-one lambs dropped, five of which died. But this is not the worst.
When the hot weather came the lambs did not do good. Paperskin got among them, and in spite of all the remedies I tried more than one-half of them died
and the others were not fit for market.
The ewes averaged 4½ pounds of wool at thirty cents, making $1.35 for wool. I have the surviving twenty-four lambs, worth about $2.50 per head. So $2.55 is the amount realized per head from the ewes, while fifty Merino wethers paid me $2.50 in wool, and there was no money laid out for ram and extra care in lambing season, such as is necessary with ewes.Although I am sick of mutton sheep I shall give them another trial. I bred my grade ewes and twenty half bloods of my own raising to lamb in February. I had a few lambs to come in February last year. They paid me much better than the April lambs, but forty-five pounds when sixty-two days old was the best I could do. I expect to be more successful this year, but I have learned not to expect such crops of lambs and enormous weights as boasted of by so many breeders. When C. Hills tells of three-quarter blood Shropshires being mistaken for imported ewes, and of a friend of his who bred common ewes to Shropshire rams and sold the lambs at four months old for fourteen dollars a head
I become skeptical. Nearly all the Shropshire men claim an average of from eight to ten pounds of wool from their entire flock. I do not wish to dispute their word, but everything in my experience tends to make me doubt their statements. My rams shear 5, 6½ and 7 pounds respectively. My half bloods were from heavy shearing Merino ewes, and averaged 5½ pounds only, and poor quality at that.I have seen several stud flocks, examined many sheep at fairs, and think, so far as wool is concerned, my sheep are fully up with the average. This one side representation by thoroughbred stockmen, the telling of everything good,
and the secret gnawing of every loss, is often the cause of men investing in such stock with expectations far beyond that which they can ever realize. Is it any wonder they find a ready sale for their stock at prices far beyond its real value when their articles never tell of the sheep they lose, the lambs that die, or the old ewes which do not produce enough wool to keep the sun from blistering their skin, or the ewe-lambs they send to the shambles so that they may keep their flocks from degenerating?The political liar is condemned in no uncertain terms, yet the thoroughbred stock raisers are allowed to go on from year to year "gulling" the unwary by their system of misrepresentation, and if any one is so bold as to raise their voice against them he brings down upon himself a pandemonium of howls and jeers, and is reminded that he is still in the old ruts and "does not read the papers."No one can welcome improved methods
more than I, both in breeding and care of stock, but I think too much importance is placed upon the thoroughbred.
It is all right to begin well if you can afford it, but if farmers would do their own thinking perhaps they would learn that the trumped up thoroughbred, when placed on their farms and receiving the indifferent care and miscellaneous breeding which their present flocks get,
would in a few years be less desirable stock than that of which they took the place, and probably they would learn that the present system of caring for thoroughbreds if applied to their common breeds would be less expensive and more satisfactory than the establishment of new flocks at exorbitant prices.

Eggs for hatching should not be more than a week old. Beyond this there is danger of the germ dying.Dry leaves may be used to great advantage for bedding. They are both comfortable and absorbing.About this time of year sow some rye for winter pasture for the lambs. In the spring it will likewise be a grateful bite of green for the animals that have been on dry feed. After that you can plow it under if you like.In casting about in your mind as to what you are going to do about fattening your hogs this fall, remember that they should be disposed of as soon as they are fat. Keeping them a day beyond that is a loss.Pigs dropped in February or March can be made ready for the fall killing.
Make preparations for these pigs now, a year ahead.

One Baptist sister had up hill business getting to church in the drenching rain, Tuesday night. Slipping up on the sidewalk, she badly hurt a finger, broke her umbrella and so damaged her dress that she had to return home, substitute another, tie up the injured member and then she reached church in time to hear the sermon. A zealous lady can always easily overcome difficulties.

We devote a good deal of this issue to an explanation of the manner of voting under the secret ballot system and to the boundaries of the new voting precincts in the county. They are very important matters, however, and no apology for their appearance is necessary. Every voter should make himself fully acquainted with both the new way of voting and with the new place he may have to vote.

SPECIAL order of the mayor under the supervision of the board of health of the county of Lincoln and city of Stanford, that all pig pens in the city of Stanford be thoroughly cleaned and all manure piles be removed at once and thoroughly cleaned and that no hogs be put in any pens in said city and that the same be kept clean as the public health is paramount to personal conveniences and prejudices. D. W. Vandever, Mayor.

B. H. Danks, our enterprising jeweler, has adopted the following motto and has it posted conspicuously in his place of business: "Early to bed, early to rise, work like a Trojan and advertise." A splendid motto indeed. A hard worker and an industrious advertiser can bank on unbounded success. It matters not what business he follows. Let some more of our merchants adopt a similar motto and they will find it much easier to increase their wealth.

SQUIRE G. D. SMILEY, who is doing more to restore law and order in his lawless community than any man, says that he did not intend in his mittimus that the jailer could increase the bail of Chris Baker to $500 for attempting to outrage Miss Dollie Haley, but meant to do so himself. After he had fixed it at $300 the prisoner took to his heels and it was with great difficulty that he was caught. It was for the attempted escape that he put on the extra $200. By the way, Baker's is a much worse case than it was at first thought to be. He waylaid the woman and when she started to scream, he fired two pistol shots so close in her face that she was frightened nearly to death. She managed, however, to elude him till she reached assistance. Baker's only excuse for the act is that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing. He will have plenty of time in the jail or penitentiary to find out.

The swiftest event in colored circles here for a long time, was the marriage, Wednesday night, of Miss Eliza H. Peyton and Mr. George H. Brown. The Christian church was nicely decorated and a floral arch was built, underneath which the couple stood, while Rev. Harrison Graham tied the knot. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding bell was tipped and a shower of flowers fell on the happy pair. There were four couples of attendants, Misses Lena M. Salter, Alice V. Carr, Annie Mary Stewart and Annie Cook and Messrs. R. W. Fletcher, E. H. Farmer, Mack Graham and Alex Simpson. The ladies were dressed in white, as was the bride, who also wore a veil that fully enveloped her. Edmond Simpson and Silas Stewart were the ushers. A number of white people were present and were treated with the utmost consideration. A nice reception was given at Robert Carr's and the feast was varied and ample for the large crowd. The groom is a trusted employee of the ice factory and the bride was the writer's cook for seven years. If she proves as good a wife as she proved herself both trustworthy and capable, her husband will have reason to rejoice.

LEAVE your order for timothy with McKinney Bros.

WANTED.—Eggs at 14 cents per dozen at B. F. Jones, Sr.'s cash bargain store.

WILL ADAMS and Lewis Jones, both colored, were fined $1 and costs each in Judge Carson's court yesterday for disorderly conduct.

A FILTHY TOWN.—After an examination Dr. Steele Bailey, a member of the State board of health, pronounces Stanford in a most filthy and disease breeding condition. The filthiness is not confined to the negro part known as Mackville, which is a cess pool of dirt and disease, but pig stys and privies on the premises of white people are in a most uncleanly condition. The city council has requested the people to clean up and if they have not the health of the citizens sufficiently at heart for them to do so, they will be made to cleanse their premises. A few lines will bring them to their senses.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—James Moberly sold to Johnson, of Boyle, 7 head of fat heifers at $21.

—Josiah Bishop sold to James H. Yeager a fancy harness mare for $125.

—J. W. Faulkner, of Conant, bought of George D. Wearan a car-load of hay at $11.50 a ton.

—George Holmes sold to George Woods, of Boyle, 18 head of 1,400-lb. cattle at 4 cents.

—John Rout, of the West End, sold to W. W. Lyon a pair of extra good 3-year-old mare mules for $340.

—Capt. Julian Vest bought of S. J. Emory a lot of heifers at 2 cents and a bunch of 150-pound hogs at $3.

For SALE.—15 extra two-year-old feeders, weighing about 1,100 lbs. Apply to R. H. Brounigh, Crab Orchard, Ky.

—Embury, Dunn & Fox, of Boyle, delivered to Warner & Co., of Birmingham, a pair of coach horses at this place for $350.

—Special attention is called to the advertisement of the great trotting meeting at Lexington, Oct. 5-14, of which we shall have more to say next issue.

—Snow & Woods sold to Wright, of Lincoln, 101 ewes for $280. J. E. Wright sold lately in Garrard and Madison 400 ewes at $3 to $3.50. Dick Bruce bought four car-loads of wheat from several parties at 70 cents. Court day sales were small, best cattle offered bringing only $24.—Advocate.

The fall meeting of the Louisville Jockey Club begins on Oct. 31 and a week of fine sport is assured. The races are all well filled. The Bluegrass stakes on the first day has 34 entries; the St. Leger, on the second day, 52; the Belle Meade on the fourth 26; the Cash Handicap on the fifth 18, and the Sanford on the last 22. There are five races each day and all of them promise to be well contested.

A fairly good crowd attended the sale of J. D. E. H. and J. C. Jones on Wednesday, but bidding was slow all the way through. The farm was first offered in two parcels, one containing 200 acres and the other 249. The former, which has no dwelling, was bid to $14 per acre and the latter with the dwelling to $50.40. It was then offered as a whole and was bought by J. B. Foster at $50.25 and that gentleman will take possession at once. Farming implements went cheap; corn in field $1.90 to $1.35 per barrel; hay, per ordinary stack, $13.50 to $18.50; oats in sheaf $10 per ton; milk cows $11 to $25; pair steers $26.50; mare mule $30; 3-year-old mare $12; 2-year-old horse $8; 2-year-old mare $8; two work horses $11 and $20; hogs 3.30.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—There were fifteen deaths in the county during the past fortnight.

—Mr. M. J. Miller, of this place, has a fine St. Bernard dog which he refused to exchange for a horse.

—The saw-mill of J. L. Arnold, on Long Branch, was destroyed by fire Monday night.

—John Cook, while lighting lamps in K. C. coaches, at Livingston, was knocked down and seriously bruised by an engine striking the coaches.

—Mr. M. L. Smith, who was supervisor on South end of K. C., under Mr. Downs, has accepted a similar position on the Santa Fe, where Mr. Downs now is.

—Mt. Vernon post office will soon be a money order office. Post-master Boring has sent on his bond. There will be three of this class of offices in Rockcastle.

—Bill Damerel, who got two years at last term of court, was taken to Frankfort last Thursday. Fain, who was given 17 years for killing Jesse Hilton, has taken an appeal.

—Mrs. R. Reynolds died at Livingston Tuesday morning. A daughter of Larkin Hicks died at Brodhead, Tuesday, of typhoid fever. Mrs. Hardin, mother of Jailer King, died Sunday.

—Joe and Greely Mize, two Livingston youths, were tried here Monday on an indictment found by the late grand jury, on the charge of disturbing religious worship. The jury found for defendants.

—Miss Mattie Ramsey, of Paint Lick, has secured a class in music at this place and will teach here this fall and winter.

Moritz Fisher, geologist, was with us last week. He and his partner, Mr. Linney, visit this county almost every year to secure specimens in their line.

Mr. J. R. Cass was up from Brodhead, Tuesday, arranging his bond for money order office. U. G. Baker, H. J. and J. H. Mullins are taking in Washington.

Mr. H. H. Baker, who did business here in the firm of McKenzie & Baker, has moved his family to his farm. John Hubble, of Pulaski, is visiting friends here.

—Mrs. Harrison, who has been very ill at Loon Lake, was successfully removed to the White House.

—The L. & N. will carry the bankers to the State meeting at Lexington, Oct. 4-5, at one fare for the round trip.

—Nick and Ed Johnson, brothers, of Harrodsburg, quarreled and each shot the other, nearly mortally.

—Gen. F. H. Winston, ex-Minister to Persia, has been appointed treasurer of the Chicago democracy, the Illinois State democratic committee and the western branch of the national democratic committee.

TRUST.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

A picture memory brings to me: I look across the years and see Myself beside my mother's knee.

I feel her gentle hand restrain My selfish moods, and know again A child's blind sense of wrong and pain.

But wiser now, a manly gray grown, My childhood's needs are better known, My mother's chastening love I own.

Gray grown, but in our Father's sight A child still groping for the light To read His works and ways aright.

I bow myself beneath His hand; That pain itself for good was planned, I trust, but cannot understand.

I fondly dream it needs must be That, as my mother dealt with me, So with His children dealeth He.

I wait, and trust the end will prove, That here and there, below, above, The chastening heat, the pain is love.

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY COUNTY.

—J. W. Sullivan has had a new roof put on his store building.

—Rev. George Ames is preaching this week at Big Creek Gap, Tenn.

—John D. Littlejohn, editor of the Jellico Advance, spent Tuesday with us.

—There was a large attendance from Whitley to the democratic convention at London, last Monday. The boys report a harmonious time and we feel there is certainly a chance for Hindman to win.

Every democrat should do his duty and let us send a solid delegation to Congress this year.

—On last Friday evening the young people of the Congregational church gave a literary entertainment followed by an ice cream supper. There was a large attendance and a good programme, after which ice cream and cake of the choicest quality was served until none could want more.

—J. C. Mason, of Richmond, visited his brother, Walker Mason, this week.

James A. Butler and Milford White have gone to Lexington to school.

J. M. Blakely, Thomas Higginbotham and Walker Mason attended the Sunday school picnic on Marsi creek last Sunday.

Several of our citizens are attending the Knox County Fair this week.

J. C. Mahan was in Louisville last week.

—The republicans held their primary election to elect county officers last Tuesday.

It was one of the most exciting elections held here for years and whisky and money flowed freely and long before night our streets, usually so quiet and decent, were filled with drunken rowdies giving us another terrible example of the rottenness of politics.

The night was made hideous by the yells of drunken men and the firing of pistols. The election was not only a disgrace to the republican party, but to civilized society and yet these pious, incorruptible republicans want the State of Kentucky turned over to them, and try to deliver lectures on morals and hold the democrats up as examples of all that is corrupt.

May the Lord never permit our now happy land to pass under the management of such a party, ruled and controlled by such means.

J. L. Manning was nominated for sheriff and U. H. Meadows for circuit clerk.

A good many of the best republicans refused to take part and declare that they will vote for whom they please in November and not be dictated to by any primary.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—There are about 20 "jags" at the Springs for treatment; also several for their "health." The place will remain open all winter for the reception of patients and a large crowd is expected here late in the fall.

—The cholera scare has aroused our city fathers. At a recent meeting of the "council" all premises were ordered cleaned and all dogs turned out of the pens in the city limits; the streets have been cleaned and lime scattered from one end of town to the other.

—Misses Nora and Irma Gheens, are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Martha Singleton, in the country.

Mr. John McCall is at his uncle's, Mr. Wm. Stuart. Capt. Roberts is back among his friends.

Col. Slaughter has opened up another store in connection with his general store, in the Harris House.

—Revs. Will C. Barnes and Geo. W. Dunlap lectured at the Springs Monday and Tuesday evenings to rather small audiences. The bad views, etc., of India and its customs and was well worth the price of admission. Our people missed a rare treat by not turning out to hear them.

—A wedding will occur about the 1st of October in the county and the participants will be a young man from one of the Southern States and one of our most beautiful young ladies and her name is not quite "Rutledge." Guess, "Lizzie Did" Buchanan, daughter of Mrs. Abrahams, and a gentleman from Tennessee.

For many years Mr. B. F. Thompson, of Des Moines, Iowa, was severely afflicted with chronic diarrhoea. He says: "At times it was very severe, so much so that I feared it would end my life. About seven years ago I chanced to procure a little of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It gave me prompt relief and I believe cured me permanently, as I now eat or drink anything I please without harm. I have also used it in my family with the best results." For sale by Dr. J. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

La Grippe Again.

During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with results, or the purchase price will be refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or any Throat, Chest or Lung trouble. Trial bottles free at A. R. Penny's Drug Store. Large bottles, 50c and $1.

HUBBLE.

—J. W. Bright has begun driving nails in his new building; Totten boys are the contractors. Perry Hudson, of Colorado, will move back to this settlement soon.

—The meeting at the school house has been largely attended and the people delighted with Bro. Taylor's lessons of love and liberty. There has been one confession.

—The school trustees here are trying to raise about $20 to repair the school-house. They have decided to raise it by subscription, if possible, rather than by subscription.

—Joe Rice has gone to Frankfort to attend school. Mrs. Amanda Lay and sweet little daughter have returned to S. Dunbar's, after an extensive visit in the mountains.

—We had a splendid sermon at the M. E. church Sunday morning by young Bro. Lancaster. We are glad to note the return of Bro. Arnold to this work for another year.

—Ben Swope is able to be out again. Mr. Lee F. Hanks, of Knoxville, was in to see one of our pretty girls Sunday.

We hope there is no danger of having to give her up soon.

—John Underwood and Miss Hanna Bourne were joined in matrimony by Eld. J. Q. Montgomery Tuesday evening.

at 4 o'clock at the bride's father's residence. She is the pretty daughter of Wm. Bourne and we are glad to say that the happy couple have the good wishes of everybody.

—Judge Joe Robinson is repairing the Hanging Fork bridge on the Lancaster and Danville pike. James McCarty will move soon to Bill Logan's farm on the Stanford and Lancaster pike.

Capt. W. A. Abbott, who has long been with Messrs. Percival & Hutton, Real Estate and Insurance Brokers, Des Moines, Iowa, and is one of the best known and most respected business men in that city, says: "I can testify to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Having used it in my family for the past eight years, I can safely say it has no equal for either colds or croup." 25 and 50-cent bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A Cure for Paralysis.

Frank Cornelius, of Purcell, Ind. Ter., says: "I induced Mr. Pinner, whose wife had paralysis in the face, to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. To their great surprise before the bottle had been drawn to one side; but the Pain Balm relieved all pain and soreness and the mouth assumed its natural shape." It is also a certain cure for rheumatism, lame back, sprains, swellings and lameness. 50-cent bottles for sale by Dr. M. L. Bourne, Druggist and Optician, Stanford, Ky.

Instructions to Voters.

To the Voters of Lincoln County:

As directed by the new Election Law, the following instructions have been prepared:

Any one desiring to vote shall enter the voting-room and give his name and residence, if requested, to the clerk, who will furnish him one ballot, endorsed with his signature, and also give any desired information as to the manner of voting. The ballot will contain the names of all the candidates, the nominees of each party being placed in a separate row under some emblem or device, enclosed in a square, by which that party is to be designated, and a small square will be placed after the name of each candidate. Immediately after receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to one of the voting booths and in three minutes' time prepare his ballot.

If he desire to vote for all the candidates of any party, he will make a cross mark [X] in the square, at the top of the ballot, containing the emblem by which the party is designated. If he desires to vote against any of his party's nominees, he will make a cross mark in the small squares after the names of those for whom he desires to vote, having first made a cross mark in the square containing his party's emblem. If more than one name for the same office is marked, his vote shall not be counted for that office.

Sufficient space is left after each name on the ballot in which the voter may write, with black pencil, the name of a qualified person for whom he desires to vote for any office, after whose name he will also place a cross mark, but no printed names on the ballot shall be marked out. In case of a question submitted to the people, the cross mark should be placed against the answer which the voter desires to give.

If any voter states on oath that he is unable to read, or that he is blind, or physically unable to mark his ballot, it shall be the duty of the election clerk, in the presence of the Judges and Challengers, to render the necessary assistance.

The voter, before leaving the booth, shall fold his ballot so as to disclose no part of its contents except the signatures of the County Clerk and Election Clerk, after which he will deliver the ballot to one of the Judges, who will deposit it in the ballot box.

If a ballot be so spoiled or defaced that it can not be used, the Clerk shall furnish a new one on the surrender of the spoiled one to him.

Any one attempting to leave the voting room with a ballot in his possession will be liable to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100. Black stencils with which to make the cross marks will be found in the voting booths.

The following portions of the Election Law are quoted in full:

ARTICLE III, SECTION 37.

"When the polls are closed the officers of election shall, in the voting-room, immediately count the votes and certify the same as hereinafter provided; and no adjournment shall be had until the same is completed. When the result of the ballot is ascertained, it shall be immediately announced by one of the Judges, in front of the voting-room, and thereupon the judges shall, in the presence of the Clerk, Sheriff and the Inspectors provided for in the preceding section, destroy ballots voted, mutilated or spoiled and the ballots remaining unvoted; PROVIDED, That if there are any ballots cast and counted, or left uncounted, concerning the legality or regularity of which there is any doubt or difference of opinion in the minds of the Judges of Election, said ballots shall not be destroyed, but sealed up and returned to the Clerk of the County Court with the returns of the election for such judicial or other investigation as may be necessary, with true statement as to whether they have or have not been counted, and if counted, what part, and for whom."

ARTICLE XIII, SECTION 1.

"Any person who shall knowingly and wilfully remove or attempt to remove a ballot from the election-room, or have in his possession outside the election-room any ballot, either genuine or counterfeit, during the election, shall be guilty of felony, and on conviction, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than two nor more than five years."

"§ 2. If any person shall take or remove in any manner, feloniously or with the consent or permission of the custodian for the time, any official ballot or ballots, from any place where they may lawfully be under this law, shall knowingly and wilfully have in his custody or possession such ballots, except as an official or custodian under the law, or while within the polling place for the purpose of voting; or if any such custodian or official shall consent to, or permit any of such ballots to be removed or carried away from the place where they may lawfully be, by any person except such official or custodian whose duty it is to receive the same, such person, custodian or official shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than three nor more than ten years."

"§ 3. Any person who shall, during the election, knowingly and wilfully remove or destroy any of the supplies or other conveniences placed in the booths for the purpose of enabling the voter to prepare his ballot, or shall during an election remove, tear down or deface the cards printed for the instruction of voters, or shall during an election, destroy or remove any booth, or other convenience provided for such election, or shall induce or attempt to induce any person to commit any of such acts, whether or not any of such acts are committed or attempted to be committed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than six months nor more than one year."

Respectfully submitted,
